LEGAL AID PROVISION REPORT

2011/2012

August, 2013

DEFINITION OF LEGAL AID

GLOSSARY;

- Legal Aid legal advice, assistance, representation, education, and mechanisms for alternative dispute resolution; and to include a wide range of stakeholders, such as non-governmental organizations, community-based organizations, religious and non-religious charitable organizations, professional bodies and associations and academic institutions.¹
- Pro Bono Professional services dispensed on a voluntary basis at no cost to the recipient. Derived from Latin, pro bono means to work for the public good, and is most commonly used in the legal profession. The provider of a pro bono service may generally do so only to a party that is unable to afford the service. In doing so, the provider is perceived to be imparting a benefit for the greater good, rather than for the usual profit motive².
- Paralegal A non-lawyer who performs routine tasks requiring some knowledge of the law and procedures, employed by a law office or who works free-lance³.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

On behalf of TANLAP Secretariat, I would like to formally acknowledge and thank all partners, individuals and contributors who supported and encouraged us throughout this mission. Through their moral and material support it was possible to produce this report.

I would like to thank all TANLAP members, Board of Directors and TANLAP staffs for their unwavering support and the opportunity to be a part of this great assignment. I would like also to extend my gratitude to all executive heads of the organizations responded to this task for their active collaborations throughout the task and to the representatives of the local NGOs who, by sharing their experiences and insights, made this report possible.

Also I am grateful for Geofrey Chambua and his team for conducting this survey and drafting this report that provides for the data and situation of legal aid services for the year 2011/12 in Tanzania.

TANLAP appreciates and acknowledges the contribution of other stakeholders in this exercise, specifically USAID through WiLDAF and LSRP through LAS for supporting this survey to be conducted and to produce this report.

Thank you all!

CHRISTINA KAMILI,

Executive Director,

TANLAP.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Tanzania Network of Legal Aid Provider (TANLAP) is conducting the mapping survey tracking the implementation of the provision of legal aid services since 2011/12. The evaluation has been designed to provide regular feedback about the implementation of the changes to the legal aid system, as well as monitoring the achievement of the intended outcomes among LAPS. The exercise was conducted between February and April 2013, targeting all LAPS across the country.

The mapping for legal aid providers was planned, organized and conducted under the auspices of the Tanzania Network of Legal Aid Providers (TANLAP). The outcome of this process is a quantitative baseline to guide capacity development and technical assistance to strengthen systems and procedures on the provision of legal aid.

The assessment involved reviewing of relevant documentations, developing and administering a structured questionnaire, and a brain storming session by the respective organizations to discuss the findings.

KEY FINDINGS;

- Lack of awareness on basic rights and duties for people living in the rural areas which provides gaps in accessing or denied of their justices.
- Inadequate or limited financial resources in providing legal aid services among LAPS which permeate heavily dependency on donor funding which is not sustainable. This has fuelled some LAPS to provide services for gain as using legal aid for motivating clients to treat.
- Monitoring and evaluation and quality assurance of legal aid provision are weak. The need for better monitoring and evaluation of legal aid provision cannot be overemphasized⁴.
- There is a generally weak legal framework and uncoordinated services, which has resulted into difficulties to monitor and measure outcomes and impacts. Many LAPS at the community level are established by different actors in the field hence causes conflict of interest or mixed feelings.
- There are very few Lawyers and advocates providing legal aid services for the good of the public in the countryside.
- Limited motivations to Legal Aid Providers.
- There are some areas in the country which has not been covered by legal aid provision many LAPS are in township areas.
- There are few Legal Aid Providers for People with Disabilities (PWDs) in Tanzania in line with facilities for provision of such services, this area need a thorough survey to determine the extent of the problem.
- The increase in court fee in litigations has effects of limiting access of justice to majority of poor people especially in the rural areas. Only few LAPs are eligible to issue Court Fee Exemption letters, thus leaving many legal aid clients with limited possibility to access this service.
- There is no Legal Aid Act to provide guidance on enforcement and regulation of legal aid service provision in the county as the Legal Aid Criminal Proceedings Act has some gaps to be worked on.
- Ward Tribunals and Village Committee are limited with financial and technical capacity to attends legal aid for their communities.
- Lack of representation of Advocates in the Ward Tribunals.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- There is a need for LAPS to advocates for institutions of Legal Aid Act that is reflective of the current situation and needs in the country. The ratified international and regional conventions have provided a solid framework for the provision of legal aid services. This needs to go hand in hand with review of some laws with gaps. This can be strategically achieved by an advocacy plan for LAPS which will also advocate for increased resources for legal aid provision in Tanzania.
- Review the Ward Tribunal Act with a view to improving selection and quality of their members and provide training and mentoring services. Thus, increase people's access to alternative dispute settlement outside the court system.

⁴See also in LSF Report

- Create mechanism for fresh laws graduates to work in LAPS schemes as part of providing the return indirectly through provision pro bono legal aid services as an ethical duty.
- Create conducive environment for motivating the lawyers to provide legal aid services hence increase the number of lawyers offering legal aid services especially in rural areas.
- Harmonized standardized legal aid provision schemes for all LAPS.
- Support the organizational capacity and skills of LAPs to expand their coverage and deliver good quality legal aid services.
- Support and facilitate the networking of LAPs to enhance coordination and avoid duplication of efforts. Share lessons and experiences on implementation and delivery models with the objective of increasing quantity and quality of legal aid service.
- Establish legal aid fund among LAPS and encourage local fundraising as social enterprises strategically by developing resource mobilization strategy, identify fiscal mechanisms for channeling funds to the legal aid fund, such as:
 - ✓ Recovering costs in civil legal aid cases where the legal aid litigant has been awarded costs in a matter and channeling such recovered costs into the legal aid fund.
 - ✓ Fixing a percentage of the State's criminal justice budget to be allocated to legal aid services⁵.
- Facilitate the establishment and operationalization of a Performance Monitoring and Evaluation System Strategy aiming at having data/information that will be used to measure performance of Legal Aid Services Provision, quality assurance of legal aid provision, and impact on investments.
- Conduct community mobilizations for increasing awareness of people's rights and duties and on the availability of legal aid services within their respective community.
- Conduct survey on the level of awareness of Legal Aid Provision in the country at community level.
- Agree minimum quality standards for Legal Aid Services and clarify the role of paralegals and other service providers:
- Develop a national media campaign focusing on legal literacy in consultation with civil society organizations and media groups.
- The survey need to be widened to other key audiences such as decision makers in MDAs, LGAs, Private sector (legal firm operating for business) and other key actors in the community who are solely the beneficiaries for LAPs.
- The mapping took longer than expected because of complexity in tracing LAPS in particular area, the study is recommending for the institutionalization of the Regional and Zonal Data base centers/network or focal person in every Region.
- Need to broaden the study to include community members actually benefiting from legal aid service and other actors in administration of justice such as Magistrates, Police (PCGD), LGAs, WEOs and members from the Ward Tribunals in order to solicit their perception on the quality of services.

1.0 BACKGROUND AND RATIONALE

Tanzania Network of Legal Aid Providers (TANLAP) is an umbrella national network working in legal sector. It is a membership network comprised of Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs), Community –Based Organisations (CBOs), Faith Based Organisations (FBOs) and other institutions providing legal aid in Tanzania. Founded in 2006, TANLAP's core aim is to work and link up with other Civil Society Organisations to ensure provision of quality legal aid and advocate for access to justice among the poor and marginalised sections of society in Tanzania.

The study aimed at documenting and providing perspective on the method to strengthen the capacity of Legal Aid Providers in Tanzania, Promote networking among LAPs and helps interactions and sharing common goals and results in performing activities, Improve local coordination to ensure availability, affordability and accessibility to friendly legal aid information and services make recommendations for future programming and generate hypotheses for future studies.

1.1. OBJECTIVES

The study aimed at gathering information that will inform future decisions on mainstreaming legal aid to various stakeholders in Tanzania. The information gathered from this needs assessment will be used by TANLAP as the basis for developing annual reports, training and other capacity building programs to stakeholders providing legal aid in Tanzania.

1.1.1. SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES

1. Collection and analysis of existing qualitative and quantitative data among LAPs.
2. To determine the existing opportunities and gaps in providing legal aid services in Tanzania.
3. Make future recommendations for future programming and plans for TANLAP and other boundary stakeholders.

2.0 METHODOLOGY

Given the time available and limited financial resources, the mapping could not be comprehensive, but focused on key priorities. The study intended to cover the full range methodologies and reach out to all LAPS but with some limitations, the respondents were reached based availability through various searches.

The study was conducted in all the regions where legal aid is being implemented; The two study involved two fold; the quantitative approach through designed questionnaires which was administered through coordinated mails and qualitative approach through field visit and documenting views from respondents. The field visit involved three zone out of seven; namely lake zone comprising of Shinyanga, Simiyu, Kagera, Mwanza and Mara; the Southern Highland Zones with only Mbeya, Iringa and Njombe and finally the Eastern Zone with Dar Es Salaam, Morogoro and Coast. The rest were supplied by questionnaires.

2.1 STUDY DESIGN

The study adopted survey design in order to facilitate the collection of information from selected organizations. Survey design was used to collect data from individual organizations providing legal aid services ranging from professional NGOs to paralegals with the objective of determining the current status with respect to one or more variables. This design was suitable since it facilitated the collection of original data necessary to realize the study objectives. The survey design was appropriate in collecting useful data which could be quantified and reported as a representation of the real situation or characteristic in a study population.

2.2 STUDY SITES

The study was expected to be conducted in all 30 Regions of Tanzania regardless of whether there is a provision of legal aid or not, this is subject to the objective to determine the existing gaps and opportunities. However, due to several limitations, the mapping achieved in reaching out to 27 regions out of 30 (90%). In these regions, the variable depended on the number of Organizations responded to questionnaires sent to them.

Two main approaches used for electronic data collection (1) Through emails and follow up of phone calls and (2) through field visit to some few selected sites. The study took longer than the expected time due to several factors including delaying of responses from targeted samples. One of the critical areas which also delayed the feedback of questionnaires is thought to be multiplicity of LAPS especially at grassroots levels with their founder at the central level. Majority of LAPS have been observed not to have recognized the status after their establishment hence still depending upon their founder, they took long in seeking clarifications before responding others decided not to respond even where they were clarified. The study also took place at the time when there were few questionnaires from other sources thus brought confusions.

The mapping also found that though some of this legal aid has specifically provided services to people with disabilities (PWDs) however, the survey found that there is only one organization which specifically was established to offer Legal Aid to people with disabilities. Therefore there is a need for Legal Service providers to specifically establish units in their organization that will be responsible to provide legal aid to people with disabilities in order for them to access Justice.

2.3 STUDY POPULATION

The sample population was collected from among TANLAP Members, Paralegal organizations and individuals LAPS NGOs, CBO and FBOs. A total of 72 respondents were reached in all regions out of 120 which were supplied with the questionnaires. This account for almost more than 70% of the feedback.

2.4. DATA COLLECTION METHODS.

Both primary and secondary data were used for data collection. Primary data were collected using interviews through questionnaire and in-depth interviews while secondary data were collected through documentary review. The questionnaires were semi structured and open-ended. The main reason for choosing these methods were to the fact that they are free from bias of the interviewer whereby answers are in respondents' own words.

2.5. DATA ENTRY AND ANALYSIS.

All filled questionnaires were uniquely identified by using numbers and respective data thoroughly re-checked on entry to the computer. Data entry were undertaken by competent and experienced data management officers. The officers also performed data cleaning, assignment of variables and value labels as per standard professional practice. The data cleaning entailed addressing data inconsistencies, outliers, missing information and other problems, as occurred.

2.6. REPORT WRITING AND VALIDATION.

The report writing involved three stages. First a draft report was shared with TANLAP management. The comments from this stage were addressed to produce a second draft for which was shared with a wider stakeholders group and incorporated all relevant comments from the stakeholders to produce and submit the final report.

3.0 KEY FINDINGS

The part present the key findings from the study, the reporting is based on the key features which were assessed. Under each category, the report presents findings from the discussions with key informants on the structured questionnaires.

Caution should be exercised in reading the report's results as if the views are representative of all legal aid providers in Tanzania. The report analyses only the results of views expressed by the survey respondents. We cannot be sure that the results are representative of all legal aid providers. We could find only one variable against which we could compare responders and no responders to the survey. The results for the variable of providers' "experience level" were very similar for those who responded to the survey and for those who did not respond. For some survey questions the number of respondents who had experienced a particular change in the legal aid system was small, less than a third of all respondents.

3.1. PROFILE OF RESPONDENTS

This section describes the profile of respondents, including demographics, roles, experience and workloads of the respondents. Respondents covered a broad range of experience, backgrounds, locations and types of work. Most were paralegals organizations which have been established by experienced LAPS. At least half had more than 7 years' experience, while 30% had up to 5 years' legal aid experience.

Historical trends.

The results from fig above suggest the progression of Legal aid provisions from 1990, there is a sharply increase from 2006 where 35 organization were registered which is more than 150% of those registered in 1990's. Moreover, the mapping found that there is a duplication of efforts in establishing LAPS in many parts of the country. These efforts are concentrated mainly by TAWLA, WLAC, LHRC and nola which were found to have many partnership base. This calls for a need to harmonize the duplicated efforts at the implementation level thus to avoid conflict of interest and solicit a pool for resource mobilization.

The funding support from FCS might best express the sharp increase of LAPS for the past five years –KII

3.1. MAIN CLIENTS

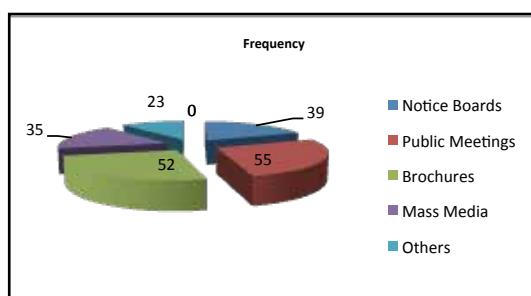

The results from fig 3, suggests that majority of LAPS provide services to children and women. There are others working to all groups, it is also interesting to note that there are LAPS servicing People with Disabilities (PWDs) as well. It is interesting to note that even men are coming up in big numbers for legal aid. Children are mostly represented by their parents or guardian (KII). However, the field observation reported lack of friendly environment for providing services. Many LAPS operates under a limited office spaces to accommodate for in- camera services (KII -MBEPAU). Distance from the localities also was another explained hurdle for access to these centers and many are not friendly to PWDs.

Majority of LAPS lack facilities for assisting PWDs including friendly tools, interpreters

3.3. COMMUNICATION CHANNELS

Although many respondents indicated their major means of communication to be through public meetings and brochures, the mapping observed this to be with the emerging organizations other than those in the incipient stages, moreover majority of those using public meetings were found in the rural areas where they use public events such as women's day, HIV and AIDS day, 16th days of activism against gender based violence and similar, to provide legal aid and sometimes to make themselves known to the public. The survey observed however, this to be a big gap especially for the means notice board whereas it has been very difficult to trace the location of service, as you may find the notice right at the door post and sometimes even written in English to some few. On the other hand most notice found right at the door post of the respective offices and not from a reasonable distance.

Figure 4: Medium of Communication to clients

WHAT NEED TO BE DONE

Improve access for citizens to the necessary information on how to receive legal aid. The study acknowledges the work already done at community level with a view to enhancing access to information for citizens on how to receive legal aid (e.g. information available on the notice board, Judicial Network in civil and commercial matters and on the websites). However, more could be done both at community and national level in order to improve citizens' awareness regarding their right to legal aid. Particular efforts should be made in favor of vulnerable persons who do not necessarily have friendly access to legal aid information's and tools. The state and LAPS should therefore take initiatives, and encourage partners to take initiatives, to that end through, for example, the financing of awareness campaigns on the provision of legal aid.

3.4. DATA COLLECTION TECHNIQUES

Many LAPS are still using Register books for recording client informations, and the attendance if a client are not systematic, though majority have set aside specific days for legal aid. The special form or questionnaires observed by the research team has different questions which are not standardized, mostly depending in who initialized the formation of a particular organization either TAWLA, nola, WLAC or LHRC which were found to have many LAPS in the rural areas. Most of services provided by LAPS are based on best practices and not adhering to the Legal Aid (Criminal Proceeding Act), this might be attributed to lack of proper knowledge on the provision of legal aid, the major gap observed from the field is where clients are provided with services without signing

We are working like in an Island, we have no support and we attends whoever comes with no standardized format or tool-KII Babati the consent form. This calls for a need to have a standard format which will ensure that the delivery of legal aid services to the highest possible standards.

3.6. KEY CHALLENGES FOR LAPS

The financial resources have been a major hurdle for the implementation of legal aid among many respondents. This ranges from the resources to run offices including paying for rent, hiring permanent staffs, litigation costs, and even getting worse in case of referrals. The cost also included the resources for attending clients whereby majority of KII narrated the situation where they are forced to foot on some incidentals for clients such as return fare to the centre, meals and even hosting survivors especially of GBVs though not ethical under legal aid codes of conduct. In some incidences it was alleged that many offices are running with double standards of operating as Legal Aid Providers while charging clients substantial amount, while others have introduced a token of charge fee ranging from 500-5000 to meet some costs for attending clients.

In a democratic society everyone has a right to access justice. Yet, many people struggle to understand their legal rights and obligations. They often feel helpless when faced with legal problems. Without legal aid ordinary and vulnerable people would not be able to use the law to protect themselves and achieve their rights.

Most democracies therefore consider that it is necessary to provide some level of legal aid to people otherwise unable to afford legal representation. To fail to do so would deprive such persons of access to justice. Alternately, they would be at a disadvantage in situations in which, for example, the state or a wealthy individual took them to court. This would violate the principles of equality before the law and due process under the rule of law.

Article 13 of the Constitution of the United Republic of Tanzania of 1977 as amended provides for this right as it states that all persons are equal before the law and that they are entitled without discrimination to protection and equality

The situation has been worsened with increased costs in filing civil and land litigations. Legal aid services in many African countries are donor funded and may be terminated at any time. For this reason, there is need for sustainability. Sustainability includes: funding, the provision of professional services, establishment of infrastructure, and the ability to satisfy the needs of the relevant community in the long term. Appropriate government, private sector and other funding, and community ownership arrangements should be established in order to ensure sustainability of legal aid in every country⁶.

KEY CHALLENGES CITED

- Lack of awareness of legal rights and illiteracy among community members. People do not know their rights, which pose difficulties when defending themselves in the court. This was reported to be a major issue, because it has a potential to mislead the court and may result in unfair judgments.
- Increasing court cases fee which causes majority of people not able to afford either the cost of advocates or the cost of following up their case, which leads into many unresolved disputes.
- Limited office spaces which hinder privacy for attending clients.

⁶ Lilongwe Declaration at pg

Other challenges addressed were the community perception such as social cultural norms due to dominance of social cultural barriers including patriarch system where many victims are shying away from coming out for legal assistance. Other LAPS shared experience that they have gone to an extent of developing Identification cards, they are recognized to few but in some cases are seen as threats to LGAs, including Village (VEO) and Ward Executive Officers (WEO) as being

One community member was severely beaten by a husband, when approached tempering with their "daily bread" hence crate conflicts.

We are working for the community on volunteerism basis, however, some WEO and VEO works for personal interest as they are demanding payment from community members seeking legal remedies while Paralegals provide services at a freelance, in short they hate us" -KII Iringa.

Meanwhile, LAPS are seen as mere activists and not valued, especially when they issues summons and respondents do no turn out. Paralegals claimed to lack specific skills in some specialized areas and laws.

4.0. TOTAL CASES ATTENDED

As reported before, the figure is a representation of respondents to the mapping which shows Figure 6, decrease of cases attended in 2012 as compared to 2011. Some KII reported grants support from Foundation for Civil Society in 2011 to be among factors which have boosted the number, and changes might be realized for 2013 as well since the Foundation has shown a strong support in this area. However, this does not support the increase of LAPS as privided

The figure above suggests an alarming increase of land dispute, child care and probate cases in 2012 as compared to 2011 and a reduction of GBV and Civil cases in 2012 from 2011. In Tanzania, like in many developing countries legal aid is available only to those who fall within a certain criteria, which mainly includes lack of or limited financial resources and means. The legal aid provider renders the legal aid services to an individual who qualifies for such services in accordance with the selection criteria. Legal aid clients who fall within this criterion may receive legal advice and representation for free or have subsidized rates. In many institutions, there was no single source and a system for retrieving required informations. Other key respondents voiced suspicion concerning the purpose of the survey; others felt as if we were posing additional burden and fatigue on them. Majority of respondents cited lack of awareness on the existing legal aid service within their locality hence calling for efforts for community mobilization.

4.1 ACCESS TO JUSTICE

Legal aid is a vital tool by which the fundamental right of access to justice is respected. It is of the utmost importance in the protection of citizens' rights in a democratic society. It requires that a litigant/defendant has real and effective access to the court and a real opportunity to exercise his or her rights to all legal intents and purposes. This implies that where the means of litigants/defendants do not allow them to appoint a lawyer, the right to a fair hearing guaranteed by the Legal Aid (Criminal Proceeding Act) also requires that they be provided with legal aid. A natural consequence of these rights is that the parties should be on equal terms. The main purpose of the recommendations is to ensure the efficient enforcement of the fundamental right to a fair trial, which starts with the right of access to justice by means of legal advice which, in the case of insufficient economic capacity, must be funded by the competent public services in order to prevent any person from being deprived of a defense. Defense must indeed be effective and real and not only formal. In seeking to enforce or defend one's rights no-one should be denied the right to a fair trial due to lack of financial means.

4.2 SUCCESSFUL CASES

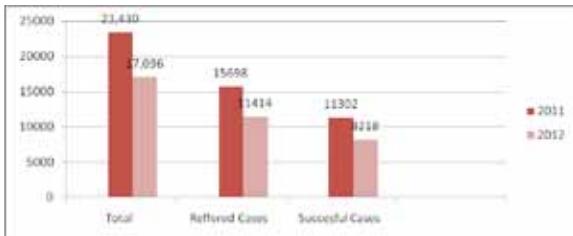

Figure9: Successful Cases

The figure shows remarkable achievements in provision of legal aid as almost 72% of cases referred to various institutions including courts

It is interesting to note that despite the fact that there is a large number of reported cases on Land dispute, LAPS have been able to resolve through various resources within their reach. KII informed also that with increased awareness on GBV sensitization and awareness many GBV cases were resolved to the reporting time.

5.0 RECOMMENDATIONS

Government

Governments should introduce measures to:

- Diversify the funding-base of legal aid institutions that should be primarily funded by governments, to include endowment funds by donors, companies and communities.
- Identify fiscal mechanisms for channeling funds to the legal aid fund, such as:
- Recovering costs in civil legal aid cases where the legal aid litigant has been awarded costs in a matter and channeling such recovered costs into the legal aid fund.
- Taxing any award made in civil legal aid cases and channeling the moneys paid into the legal aid fund.
- Fixing a percentage of the State's criminal justice budget to be allocated to legal aid services.
- Identify incentives for lawyers to work in rural areas (eg tax exemptions /reductions).

LAPS

- Launch an advocacy campaign for
 - # Institutionalization of Legal aid Act
 - # Amendment of all discriminatory laws oppressive to social, legal and economic rights.
 - # Increased resources for provision of legal aid in Tanzania.
 - # Agree minimum quality standards for legal aid services and clarify the role of paralegals and other service providers.
- Conduct massive community mobilization for increased awareness on the existing of legal aid services and access to justice for marginalized community. This must be followed by a baseline survey to determine the extent of awareness, as this study could not go to that extent from the community perceptions (only from the KII) .

TANLAP SECRETARIAT

- Consider recruitment of members who have forwarded their applications for membership.
- Harmonize and coordinate the works of LAPS through establishing regional and zonal and regional data base and coordination mechanism.
- Conduct timely requisition of evidences for LAPS.
- Establish data base for LAPS and communicate widely.
- Enhance capacity of LAPS on data base management.

CONCLUSION

The fundamental role of LAPS in the administration of justice and the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms has been recognized by the URT. For many years, LAPS have been the essential element in protecting the rights of access to justice; however, litigants seeking access to the justice system need ready and immediate access to competent and professional advice and guidance from the beginning of the process. This can only be achieved by providing competent and willing professional assistance from the earliest moment of legal concern right through to the conclusion of the judicial process.

"Legal education, including programmes of continuing education should seek to strengthen legal skills, increase awareness of ethical and human rights issues, and train lawyers to respect, protect and promote the rights and interests of their clients and support the proper administration of justice."

In this context, the TANLAP calls on the Government and other stakeholders to support (including providing financial support to) LAPs, National Bar and Law Societies in the training and continuing professional support through enhanced capacity building.

1.0. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

Tanzania Network of Legal Aid Providers (TANLAP) is an umbrella national network working in legal sector. It is a membership network comprised of Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs), Community –Based Organisations (CBOs), Faith Based Organisations (FBOs) and other institutions providing legal aid in Tanzania. Founded in 2006, TANLAP's core aim is to work and link up with other Civil Society Organisations to ensure provision of quality legal aid and advocate for access to justice among the poor and marginalised sections of society in Tanzania.

The Annual General Meeting (AGM) for TANLAP sat on 27th November, 2012, resolved anonymously for the need to conduct an evaluation for legal Aid provision Services (LAPS) among her members and other key players across the country as enshrined in the five years strategic plan for TANLAP.

The study aims at documenting and providing perspective on the method to strengthen the capacity of legal aid providers in Tanzania, Promote networking among LAPS and helps interactions and sharing common goals and results in performing activities, Improve local coordination to ensure availability, affordability and accessibility to friendly legal aid information and services make recommendations for future programming and generate hypotheses for future studies.

The study will be carried out between January to February 2013. Data will be collected through quantitative (interviewer-based questionnaires and facility checklist) and qualitative (focus group discussion and in-depth interviews) tools.

It is upon this context that TANLAP is commissioning this task.

2.0. AIM OF THE STUDY

The study aims at gathering information that will inform future decisions on mainstreaming legal aid to various stakeholders in Tanzania. The information gathered from this needs assessment will be used by TANLAP as the basis for developing annual reports, training and other capacity building programs to stakeholders providing legal aid in Tanzania.

The specific objectives are to:

- 2.1. Establish the number of clients provided with legal aid services in Tanzania for 2013 and the nature of organizations involved in providing legal aid services on Tanzania mainland and Zanzibar and their geographical coverage;
- 2.2. Identify the type of legal aid services provided, their method of provision, and provide data and an opinion on the efficacy of each type of service and delivery method including the perception of various stakeholders;
- 2.3. To determine the existing opportunities and gaps in providing legal aid services in Tanzania.
- 2.4. Provide key findings and recommendations for TANLAP and stakeholders on the results of the task.

3.0. TASKS

You are expected to:

- 4.1. Be the leading consultant.
- 4.2. Prepare the inception report.
- 4.3. Prepare tools for conducting the study.
- 4.4. Conduct induction to assistant researchers.
- 4.5. Facilitate the data collection activity in the field.
- 4.6. Write and submit report of the findings to TANLAP.

4.0. EXPECTED OUTPUT/DELIVERABLES

The key deliverables expected from the assignment, at various stages of the process, are:

- 4.1. Protocol for the assignment.
- 4.2. Inception report detailing the evaluation design, methodology, tools, work plan that includes task description for local consultants, and budget.
- 4.3. Assessment tools/instruments developed and validated.
- 4.4. Presentation of the assessment report summarizing key findings and recommendations to TANLAP Management and her stakeholders.

- 4.5. A comprehensive report (both electronic and 3 original hard copies). The Report should provide a detailed description of the methodology a representative sampling, tools used for data collection, findings, analysis and interpretation and documented evidences, constraints, challenges and lessons learnt. Annexes including success stories, case studies, sample of assessment tools, and list of persons contacted.

5.0. TIME FRAME AND DURATION

The assignment will take a total of paid days stretching from 5th February to 30th April 2013.

ANNEX 2; DODOSO LA UTOAJI WA HUDUMA ZA MSAADA WA KISHERIA
